CONSUMER BEHAVIOUR AND MARKETING

A unique degree combining applied psychology and marketing

CONSUMER BEHAVIOUR AND MARKETING AT READING

Our CIM accredited Consumer Behaviour and Marketing programme gives you an in-depth understanding of consumer behaviour: the cornerstone of all marketing activity, vital to the profitability and success of any business, service provider, policy think-tank or trade organisation.

The programme is designed specifically to provide you with a stimulating, rigorous and enjoyable training in the subject area by combining consumer behaviour, marketing, applied psychology and economics, with a thorough grounding in market and consumer research methods. This degree will help you to 'get to grips' with the motivations, thoughts, feelings, reasoning, decision making and behaviours of today's consumer driven society.

You will also have the opportunity to undertake a placement year, which is an excellent way to gain experience in your chosen area. Recent placements have included: HP, The Body Shop, Microsoft, Audi, Johnson & Johnson, Unilever and Disney.

'Being able to gain insight into what it's like working within a large worldwide corporation like Johnson & Johnson for my placement year was extremely beneficial. Through engagement with external agencies and internal stakeholders I was able to expand my networks, build on my communication skills and develop a vital sense of work professionalism.'

WHY READING?

At Reading, you will be part of a School that is internationally recognised for its research expertise. When transferred to a teaching environment, this will enable you to develop excellent research skills that are highly regarded by employers.

This course is accredited by the Chartered Institute of Marketing (CIM), enabling graduates the opportunity to gain industry-recognised CIM Certificate and Diploma qualifications at an accelerated pace after graduation.

Our modern facilities are located within an award winning parkland campus and the School has excellent links with relevant businesses through its placement opportunities and projects partnered with industry ensuring that you acquire important hands-on experience and the ability to apply your learning to real-life situations.

We offer a range of optional modules that enable you to specialise in the areas that interest you the most. This is achieved by tapping into the wealth of expertise that is held across the University, as we link with other Schools such as: Psychology and Henley Business School.

FREEDOM TO CHOOSE

Our degree is built on a number of core modules covering subjects such as:

- Consumer Psychology
- Consumer Attitudes and Behaviour
- Applied Marketing and Management

YOUR CAREER ASPIRATIONS

Our graduates typically find employment in consumer marketing, advertising, communications and the media, customer services, public relations, market research and product development in a range of organisations from small family businesses and start-ups to multinational corporations and in the not-for-profit sector. Some graduates use their degree as a foundation for further study at higher degree level. All our students complete a career planning programme to develop skills for effective career decision making and there are plenty of opportunities to build vital experience and skills through the Reading Experience and Development (RED) Award and our optional mini work placement module.

The Department of Agri-Food Economics and Marketing, based within the School of Agriculture, Policy and Development, is committed to empowering change through our teaching and research, with our academics working to tackle some of the world's most pressing issues.

Our mission is to make a difference in the context of the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals, so we offer a diverse range of modules giving you knowledge and skills that will enable you as an individual to have an impact and be part of global change, whatever your chosen pathway.

Disclaimer

This brochure was issued in 2022 and is aimed at prospective undergraduate students wishing to apply for a place at the University of Reading (the University) and start a course in autumn 2023. The University makes every effort to ensure that the information provided in the brochure is accurate and up-to-date at the time of going to press (May 2022). However, it may be necessary for the University to make some changes to the information presented in the brochure following publication – for example, where it is necessary to reflect changes in practice or theory in an academic subject as a result of emerging research; or if an accrediting body requires certain course content to be added or removed. To make an informed and up-to-date decision, we recommend that you check reading.ac.uk/study. The University undertakes to take all reasonable steps to provide the services (including the courses) described in this brochure. It does not, however, guarantee the provision of such services. Should industrial action or circumstances beyond the control of the University interfere with its ability to provide the services, the University undertakes to use all reasonable steps to minimise any disruption to the services.

Modules disclaimer

Sample modules are provided as a taster of some of the modules that may be available on each course. The sample modules listed may be compulsory (core) or optional modules. Information is correct at the time of going to press (May 2022) but the University cannot guarantee that a module appearing in this list will definitely run. Teaching staff on specific courses or modules mentioned in this prospectus may be subject to change.

For optional modules, the University cannot guarantee that all optional modules will be available to all students who may wish to take them, although the University will try to ensure that students are able to take optional modules in which they have expressed interest at the appropriate time during their course. Optional modules vary from year to year and entry to them will be at the discretion of the Programme Director.

Year abroad and placement fees

Some courses include an optional or compulsory year abroad or placement year. During this year you will only pay a partial fee which is currently set at 15% of the normal tuition fee. Check the website for the latest information: reading.ac.uk/fees-and-funding

Placements disclaimer

Programmes with a Professional Placement Year (also known as 'Year in Industry' or 'Placement Year') are fully dependent on students securing their own placement opportunity, normally through a competitive recruitment process. The University provides dedicated career and application support for placement year students. Students who do not secure a placement or who are unable to complete the placement year due to extenuating circumstances, have the option to transfer to a three year variant of their programme with agreement from their School/Department.
