Entry criteria for prescribing programmes

*The GPhC entry criteria for prescribing for pharmacists includes:

- Applicants have an identified area of clinical or therapeutic practice in which to develop independent prescribing practice
 - They must also have relevant clinical or therapeutic experience in that area, which is suitable to act as the foundation of their prescribing practice while training

Relevant experience will encompass a range of aspects including: competence and experience in the proposed area of practice, making decisions related to prescribing activities, supporting patients to make shared decisions about the best use of their medicines. This experience must also provide the foundations of prescribing knowledge and skills to facilitate the move towards independent and autonomous practice, including pharmacological knowledge and up-to-date knowledge of the clinical area.

* The NMC entry criteria for prescribing for nurses includes:

- The applicant is capable of safe and effective practice at a level of proficiency appropriate to the programme to be undertaken and their intended area of prescribing practice in the following areas:
 - Clinical/health assessment
 - Diagnostics/care management
 - Planning and evaluation of care

* The joint Royal Colleges for AHPs state that the entry criteria for prescribing includes:

- Be working at an advanced practitioner or equivalent level (in this context this usually refers to advanced clinical practice)
