- 1.2. New students may apply for a room in halls once they hold a firm unconditional or conditional academic offer of a full-time programme of study at the University of Reading.
- 1.3. Current students may apply for a room in halls, but only a limited number of places are available for returning students. Returning students will not be considered for a place in halls if they have outstanding halls-related debt or have been subject to a halls-related disciplinary sanction.
- 1.4. The University's Returning to Halls Webpage gives full information regarding eligibility for returners and how to apply <https://www.reading.ac.uk/essentials/Accommodation/University-Accommodation/Return-to-Halls>
- 1.5. Subject to any restrictions listed in these terms and conditions, the University guarantees single occupancy accommodation in halls to:

 - 2.1. Students who are aged under 18 may be placed in shared flats with students of either sex who are over the age of 18.
3. Room choice and contract lengths
 - 3.1. The University will try to take preferences into consideration but there is no guarantee that a student will be offered their first choice or preferences. Students should check their accommodation offer very carefully and make sure that the offer meets their needs before they accept.
 - 3.2. The standard contract length is for 40 or 51 weeks, with only a limited number of shorter contract lengths available. After accepting an offer of accommodation, students are liable to pay rent for the entire contract period, whether they occupy the room throughout that time or not. Students on 40-week contracts may apply to extend their stay at the end of the standard contract length. Extensions are subject to availability and may not be for the same room.
4. Academic Exchanges
 - 4.1. As students are liable to pay for their entire contract period, standard contract lengths may not be suitable for students who will be taking an academic exchange (i.e., Study Aboard and Global Partnership Programmes).
